

Living in Uganda

The Taylors lived in Jinja, Uganda 1994-2001 and plan to return for a short-term mission trip in 2010

We lived in Uganda 1994-2001, working with friends in a church planting mission. Our family has planned for a decade to return as a "pilgrimage" to the place that means so much to us all.

Bobby & Candice Garner with our kids in 2008

Trip Objectives

- Visit and fellowship with our Ugandan friends we love so much.
- Reconnect Ashley, Anna, Jacob with their childhood home—birthplace of Anna and Jacob.
- Transport a new water well drilling system to provide water for rural villages (Water4.org)
- Visit and encourage current missionaries, Bobby and Candice Garner, who have been supported by The Kibo Group and Garnett Church of Christ.

Return to Uganda

We really miss our second home
and our friends who live there

A special thank you to those of you who have sacrificed your time, energies, and money to help make the whole mission in Jinja, Uganda a way of hope for Ugandans.

We love and miss our Ugandan friends, the churches we shared life with, the missionaries who have taken the baton. Ugandans and Americans together have moved the mission toward sustainability and continued spiritual and physical development, with more than 50 churches, The Source of Life Cafe, Basoga Bible School and many other projects such as the Mvule Tree Project, Water Source, a well-drilling project, both sponsored by The Kibo Group (www.kibogroup.org).

We are committed to paying for plane tickets and as much of the trip as possible, but this trip is too big to keep to ourselves and we gladly accept any donations you want to give.

You can send tax-deductible donations to “Garnett Church of Christ” and write “Taylor–Uganda” on the memo and send to Garnett Church of Christ 12000 E 31st St. Tulsa, OK 74146. You’ll receive a tax letter at the end of 2010.

As thanks for your donation, we’ll send you a copy of the novel, High Places, a coming of age adventure and love story set in Uganda in the 1920s.

–The Taylor Family

Trip reports at www.gregtaylor.cc